Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz.—The Teres or large round worm; the Ascarides or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitina or short flat white worm; and lastly, the Tænia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious; purging with slimy and fœtid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent the vomiting and purging of children—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. AND DAILY ADVERTISER.

Country Gazette 5 Dollars.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1817.

FROM THE TROY POST.

I had a little tender flower,
Its infant leaves were just unfolding—
I watch'd the blossom hour by hour,
New beauties constantly beholding—

I fear'd the cold, I fear'd the blast,
Scarce would I let the dew-drop rest,
And when the chilly rain fell fast,
I screen'd it in my anxious breast.

The glowing sun's first morning rays
Shone mild upon its genial bed;
But when his fervid noon beams blaz'd,
I flew to shade its drooping head.

If chance its fair luxuriant stem,
Bent, devious from its parent root,
With haste I brought it back again,
And gently taught it how to shoot.

Its treasur'd sweet, its matchless bloom,
Fondly I deem'd would e'er be mine;
Would shed o'er all my days perfume,
And sweeten e'en my life's decline.

One smiling morn, in dew-drops g'leaming,
Throwing its fragrance o'er the vale,
It seem'd to bless the morning beaming,
And spread its bosom to the gale—

I mark'd the sun its beauties gild,
I gaz'd and gloried in my pride—
What anguish through my bosom thrill'd!
It droop'd, it wither'd by my side—

'Twas gone! vain all my anxious care,
And tears that steep'd its blossoms pale;
I knew my precious flow'r was fair,
But could not, would not, think it frail.

'Twas gone! and to my phrenzied mind
Rush'd wild impatience, doubt, distrust;
But conscience whisper'd, "be resigned;
"To take thy idol hence, was just."

M.

From the N. Y. Daily Advertiser.

We have had opportunity to cursorily examine a work which has appeared in England, in the course of the present year entitled—"An Account of the natives of the Tonga-Islands, in the South Pacific Ocean, &c. compiled and arranged from the extensive communications of MR. WM. MARINER, several years a resident in those Islands—By John Martin, M. D." This work, which is in two octavo volumes, is dedicated to Sir Joseph Banks. Mr. Mariner, is stated to be a respectable man who in the year 1805, he being then a youth, went on board an English private armed ship, called the Port au prince, captain Duck, with a commission, in the first place, to cruise, and if not successful, to go into the Pacific Ocean, on a whaling voyage. The ship sailed fromGravesend in February, 1805. Captain Duck died in August, 1806, and the command devolved on Brown, the whaling master. In November of the same year, the ship came to at Lafooga, one of the Hapai Islands, where, in a short time afterwards, she was taken possession of by the natives, and most of the crew massacred. Mariner, and some others, escaped. It seems that Finow, king of the Islands, had taken a fancy to Mariner, and had him brought to him, and took him into his service, and became his protector and friend.

This chief was a man of bold and daring character, and though a savage, had many distinguishing qualities. He had some years previously rebelled against the reigning sovereign, Toogo-Ahoe, a tyrant, whose character is represented as cruel, and detestable. Finow was stimulated to this course by his brother, Toobo Nueha, who considered himself particularly oppressed by the tyranny of Toogo-Ahoo, and was resolved, at all hazards, not only to be revenged himself, but to rid the country of such a scourge. He was a man of very great courage, and of more generosity and nobleness of character, than Finow. The two brothers despatched Toogo-Ahoo in the following manner. They waited upon him in the evening in the customary manner, to pay him their respects, and make him presents—and then retired. About midnight they again repaired to his house, with their followers, whom they placed around as guards, for the purpose of despatching such as might attempt to escape. Finow took the command of the guards, while Toobo Neuha, armed with an axe, entered the house. After passing the place where the king's mistresses were asleep, he came to the king stretched upon his mat, and in a profound slumber.—Wishing the king should know by whom he was about to be butchered, Toobo Neuha struck him with his hand, upon which his majesty started up—Toobo exclaimed—"It is I, Toobo Neuha, that strike," and immediately levelled a blow at his sovereign's head, which put an instantaneous end to his existence. The guards then rushed in and sacrificed the whole family, except a child of three years old, whom Toboo snatched up and carried with him. This produced a civil war, in which after considerable fighting and bloodshed, the insurgent chiefs prevailed, and Finow was established in the sovereignty of the Islands.

The inhabitants of these Islands are represented by Mr. Mariner as pagans, savages, and cannibals. He had abundant opportunity to witness the exhibition of these several traits of character, in a variety of instances. The wives of the principal men were strangled at the death of their husbands, and it was a common occurrence, when a member of their families were sick, to sacrifice a child as an offering to appease their God.

Previous to Mr. Mariner's effecting his escape, Finow died; and was succeeded by the son, also called Finow. This chief is represented as being of a very different character from his father, opposed to war, fond of peace, desirous of inducing his subjects to attend to the cultivation of their land, and eagerly bent on the acquisition of knowledge.

Mr. Mariner, at length effected his escape in the latter part of the year 1810, by getting on board the English brig Favorite, Captain Fisk, which fortunately came near to the island. After having secured himself on board, he put the men whom he had forced to carry him thither on shore, from whom Finow learned what had occurred. The next day he visited the brig, carrying presents to Mr. Mariner of provisions, &c.—He and his attendants were treated by Captain Fisk with great civility and kindness, and were so well pleased as to tarry through the night.

This young chief is stated to have been so desirous of improving his mind and learning the accomplishments of civilized life, that he might benefit the condition of his subjects, that he was extremely urgent to be carried to England for that purpose. A proposition was made to that effect to captain Fisk, at the request of Finow, by Mr. Mariner, who did not think proper, to give his assent. This was a sore disappointment to Finow—For, notwithstanding Mr. Mariner represented to him how differently he would be situated in England, standing as he necessarily would in a subordinate station among a people so highly civilized and informed, compared with living at home as a king—still he could not be pacified, but thought—"If he could but learn to read, and write, and think like an Englishman, that a state of poverty, with such high accomplishments, was far superior to regal authority in a state of ignorance."

We should think, if this prince really deserves the character which is given of him by Mr. Mariner, that it would be a very easy task, for the missionaries in that region, to introduce into his dominion, not only the arts of civilization, but the light of christianity. There appears nothing wanting but the attempt, under the countenance of a sovereign of such a disposition, to insure full success.

TALL MEN.

A French Ambassador at an Audience with James the first, conversed with such rapidity, gesticulation and grimace, that he became the public talk. King James asked Lord Chancellor Bacon what he thought of the Ambassador. 'Sir, (replied the philosopher) he appears a fine, tall, well built man.' 'I mean, (replied James) what do you think of his head? Do you think it equal to his employ!' 'Sir, (rejoined the chancellor) 'men of high stature very often resemble houses of four or five stories, where the upper one is always the worst furnished.'

SEDENTARY EMPLOYMENT.

A Frenchman being taken prisoner by the Algerines was asked what he could do as a slave: his answer was, he had been used to a sedentary employment. 'Well then,' (said the pirates) we will put on you a pair of feather breeches, and make you hatch chickens.'

ALEXANDRIA:
SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1817.

REPLY TO MR. QUÆRO.

Mr. Quæro,

I can never prevail upon myself to imitate that literary manœuvre, which you practised in your last letter, because I conceive, that some respect is due both to the public and to my own character. Genuine truth, sir, scorns the idea of misrepresentation, and without adventitious ornament or sophisticated beauty, she boldly claims public notice and defies censure. You must pardon me for thus expressing my disapprobation of your letter; I disapprove of it, because I think, that in it, cunning has somtimes taken the place of honest rectitude, misrepresentation of candour and sincerity. You have pretended to weigh the arguments on each side of the question, and to place them side by side as a storekeeper disposes of his debtors and creditors, but you have taken certain liberties which are incompatible with a fair accomptant. In the column, in which you have had the goodness to register something of what I said, you have transposed, suppressed and curtailed as you pleased. To arguments, which you brought, you have opposed on my column, remarks, which were not meant to refer to those against which you have placed them....whilst you took care to take no notice of those, which were intended as a reply. No wonder, sir, that your theological ledger looked so fair; for by disingenuous arts like these, even the writings of scripture might be rendered ridiculous.

Were I to descend so low as to imitate this conduct, I could draw up as fair a theological ledger as you have done; but be assured that I never shall, for if I had no other than these means of continuing the controversy, I would immediately withdraw from it.

But to write a letter, which may bear some reference to yours, I will endeavour to present the public with a short synopsis of our controversy. My scheme is not quite so fanciful or so romantic as yours, but it may be at least as good a vehicle of truth....An article appeared in the Gazette commending the reformation and canonizing its parent, Martin Luther. From the writings of this extraordinary man, I proved, that Luther was not that sanctified character, which he was described to be. Then Mr. Quæro, came the destined moment, which ushered you into the polemical world. Your first letter treated upon many subjects, but principally, you told us, that the reformation was the parent of civil and religious freedom, and that it delivered the world from the tyranny of the Pope's temporal power, from the impiety of indulgencies and the iniquity of the Roman chancery. To all of these I replied; and the two last of your points you immediately abandoned, but you still maintained the others. If the reformation did produce civil freedom, I enquired in what nation under Heaven had it produced it? After some time, you told me that England and the United provinces were the happy nations.

You may recollect, that I told you, that the English constitution and English laws were precisely the same before the Reformation as they are now, except the penal laws, which have long been the disgrace of the nation, and which will brand a mark of infamy on it, to the third and fourth generations. These, sir, you will remember, were the effect of the Reformation, and they hung round the necks of every one of his Britannic majesty's Catholic subjects the melancholy appendages of disqualifications and disabilities. Upon the sole authority of one man you asserted that the Italian republics were not truly free; you had no other reason to assert it, than because Mr. Adams compared them first to certain things whirling on centres, and then to water spouts foaming and bursting on the ocean. His authority, sir, is nothing, when every other historian of consequence is on the other side of the scales. If the United provinces were free, so certainly were the Italian republics; for, if requested, I will prove that protestant historians speak in the same style of both. From these premises I inferred two consequences, which you have not contradicted. 1. The reformation has produced no freedom in England. 2. If it have produced freedom in Holland, then freedom existed before the reformation, viz. in the Italian republics; contrary to your assertion.

You attempted in some style, however, to justify British intolerance against Catholics, by telling us, that their former actions are not forgotten, and that nevertheless they enjoy the full exercise of their religion. Whether the first part of this assertion be true or not, the second is certainly false. No Catholic priest, even now, can marry a couple in the eye of the law, and every Catholic match is forced to be present in the established church to have the ceremony performed by a protestant minister, either before or after they have received the sacrament in their own church. No priest can bury; no Catholic church can even have a solitary bell suspended to it, to inform the people when divine service is on the point of commencing—And yet forsooth, England is free and liberal and tolerant and just!

There was nothing, which you condemned so harshly as Catholic intolerance in condemning all heretics to hell together. But thanks be to God and the good cause, you have not said a word on this subject for a long time. When once well understood it had no other terrors attached to it, than has the genuine doctrine of scripture; I have prayed and entreated, then provoked and dared you to come forward with your faith on this subject, & answer my questions. You have declined; but be assured, that I will answer no more of your questions, till you condescend to satisfy my interrogatories.

But the greatest difficulty yet remains, viz. the Pope's temporal power. I told you to prove its admission by some canon of a general council, or bull of some Pope and addressed to the whole church, and received by the whole church. You instanced the Lateran council. I informed you how the case stood there, and you had nothing more to say; I may then on this subject adhere to my original text "Catholics acknowledge no temporal power in the Pope, and the existence of temporal power in the Pontiff was never a tenet of Catholic faith." If you are determined not to answer my questions, we will, if you please, proceed to the infallibility of the church. I shall however await your determination on this subject.

Yours, M. B.

September 3, 1817.

Mr. SNOWDEN,

Be pleased to correct the following errata in the piece of yesterday, signed Quæro. For lucendæ, read lucem edendæ; for hususmodi, read hujusmodi; for Conrad de Revesback, read Conrad de Heresback. At the top of the third column, the sentence is transposed. It ought to read thus: "Having answered these questions, we shall trouble him with inquiries concerning indulgencies, transubstantiation," &c.

During the ferment of popular enthusiasm which was produced by Mr. Monroe's presence among us, there was a momentary truce to the passions and jealousies of party. Political intrigue suspended its calculations; the voice of recrimination was silent, and even the cold spirit of selfishness and intolerance was softened by the warmth of national feeling, which was glowing around it. At such a moment the tongue of calumny lost its power, and the little arts of detraction were disarmed of their venom. The speculating partizan trembled in silence, while he feared that the road to office was becoming wider, but he dared not disturb the general harmony; his worn out slanders would have been heard by his enemies with contempt, and by his friends with surprise that they could ever have been tolerated. All this, indeed might have been anticipated from those honorable feelings and that national sympathy, which political warfare may repress, but cannot eradicate; and so, too, it might have been anticipated, that like children we should return to our quarrels, when the spectacle was over which interrupted them. The president has gone by, and the cloven foot of party again displays itself. UNION, which but a few weeks ago was the rapturous theme of eloquent exhortation, is now the topic of ridicule, and the watchword of contention. Mr. Monroe's ancient friends have discovered that the respect which was paid to him by federalists, was an imprudent intrusion upon their privileges, and are exceedingly troubled lest the president should have discovered that federalists are the enemies not of his office, his person, his character, nor of his present conduct, but of his past administration only. What are these dangers which are apprehended from the promiscuous acquaintance which he has contracted with both parties, and which are now crowding with calumny and bitterness those newspapers which were so lately devoted to the peaceful details of THE PRESIDENT'S TOUR. Is it feared that he has discovered worth and patriotism among the victims of proscription, and that he has found in the paths of integrity, and honor those venerable heads which falsehood would meanly attempt to stain? Is it feared that he has searched in vain for that treason and corruption which he was taught to look for in the "cradle of libert,"—that he has found the "blue light," extinguished, and the horrors of the "Henry plot" gone by. Is it feared that the splendid hospitality of New-England has turned his brain, and that it may tempt him to take to his bosom a viper which would sting him? We really sympathize in the restlessness and anxiety which the president has left among his old friends, and we will show our disposition to relieve it by declaring that we do not expect to behold the sphere of his patronage extending, nor do we believe that any attentions which were paid to him, were suggested by this expectation.

What an amusing spectacle we must present to the philosophers of Europe!—While we claim as a nation the applause and admiration of the world for our superior wisdom, virtue, and happiness, we are making ourselves politically miserable by our mutual distrusts and animosities. One day we are all united in the enthusiasm of fraternal affection, doing homage to our political father, and the next day our enthusiasm has turned to suspicion, and our affection to hostility. Alas! poor human nature! In monarchies and republics thou art much the same. The blessings of freedom may seem to surround thee with dignity and happiness, but they can neither give thee contentment nor conceal thy infirmities.

We hear that a report has been spread abroad, that the city is unhealthy, in consequence of the mud deposited by the late freshet. Now we undertake, on the authority of gentlemen of the first professional eminence, to assert that Baltimore was never more free from pestilentian disease than it is now—that not one case of a malignant character is known to exist—that the mud deposited was bro't from the high lands, and is now baked hard by the rays of the sun—that the only injury known to have been occasioned by the freshet, are some chronic complaints resulting from an exposure to the watery element. A professional gentleman, whose range of practice lies in that quarter of the city where the mud was deposited, assures us that there is not one case of a malignant character to be found in that place, and that his patients are only afflicted by chronic diseases. He states, that amongst the gentlemen of the faculty it has excited surprize, that not one case of a malignant nature should at this season be known to exist in Baltimore—We make these observations, because some wicked men who speculate on the alarm of their own raising, have been known to circulate reports amongst our fellow citizens, that a pestilential malady is prevalent in the city, occasioned by the mud which was deposited in our streets, &c. by the late freshet. The authors and propagators of such atrocious falsehoods deserve the lash of criminal justice. Our market is affected by the promulgation of such wicked rumours, and the price of provisions is remarkably high. It would not be amiss for the mayor and council to make an official report of the facts that we have stated above. [Fed. Repub.

On Sunday last, as we learn, two officers who had in charge two Negroes, convicted in Charles, or St. Mary's county of crimes, and sentenced to the penitentiary, were surrounded on the road, about 5 or 6 miles from the city, in the direction to Washington, by a great number of the Negroes who had assembled at the African camp meeting close by. A tumultuous attack was made on the officers, which occasioned the escape of the convicts, and we have not heard that they have been retaken. [Fed. Gaz.

Glasgow, (Ky.) July 26.

Murder.—We are sorry it has fallen our lot to announce to the public a horrid murder, committed in this county, on the body of a Doctor SANDERSON, who lived in the Mississippi Territory, about 12 miles from Natchez; from which place he came in company with John Hamilton, of this county. The object of the doctor's tour to this country is said to be the purchase of Negroes, and it is supposed he had with him 8 or 10 thousand dollars in cash. Hamilton, it appears, expressed much friendship for the doctor, by inviting him home with him to his father's; which place they left in company early on the morning of June 24th, and were seen to pass a house together, not far distant from whence they did set out: soon after passing this house the report of a gun or some fire arms was distinctly heard by the family, presently after a sorrel horse was discovered tied and hitched in view; this was the doctor's horse, which was afterwards found at Mr. Hamilton's, the father of John. In this situation the circumstances remained for three weeks, more or less, until suspicions became multiplied, and led the citizens to an honest enquiry, and search for the supposed murdered doctor. They met on Wednesday, 22d instant, at the house where the report of the gun had been heard, and they took that direction from whence the report came; they soon reached the spot where the horrid crime was committed. A part of the murdered body was presently found; the scull bears evident marks of the murderous hand—the ball and shot appear to have entered nearly between the two eye-brows, and passed through to the back part of his head, where the ball and three shot were found lodged in the skin and hair: the bone of the eye-brow, with a large portion of the scull on the same side is broken off. Previous to the murder, John Hamilton solicited and obtained the loan of a pistol from colonel Gorin; this was found near the place, and identified to be the borrowed pistol. John Hamilton's bloody breeches were found in the vicinity of the place—they appear to retain on them the marks or stain of blood. These circumstances, with many others all verging to the same point, develope the horrid deed, and tell the murderer's hand.—Hamilton has had a hearing before a court of inquiry, and was, upon the circumstances of the case, committed to jail, where he is to wait the issue of his trial. A second search has been made on and about the ground where the murder was committed. The doctor's hat and saddle-bags were found; in the hat, and under the lining, was a memorandum of the numbers, &c. of bank notes. John Hamilton observed to a gentleman previous to the murder that the doctor had several thousand dollars in New-York bank notes—these kind of notes were seen in possession of Hamilton to the amount of several thousand dollars since the murder.

Fauquier Land for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale his farm, called "CULLINS," situated in the county of Fauquier, on Kettle Run, and adjoining the lands of Messrs. Samuel Weaver, Jacob Weaver, and others, 7 miles from Fauquier Court House, 33 from Alexandria, and 3 from the Buckland Mills, containing about 400 acres; a considerable portion of which is now in very heavy timber, the balance cleared and in cultivation, including about 80 acres of the first quality bottom land, which, with a small portion of labor, might be made to produce a large quantity of hay. This land lies well, and is in a good neighborhood, and finely watered, Kettle Run passing thro' the farm. To a person disposed to purchase land for the purpose of cultivating and improving it himself, the above offers great advantages, as the plaster Paris & clover acts on no land more efficaciously than on this.

Also, one other farm, lying immediately adjoining, containing the like number of 400 acres; about one half of which has been cleared, the balance well set in timber.

The above farms will be sold together or separately, as may suit purchasers.—For terms, which will be liberal, apply to the subscriber, residing near the premises.

THE Subscriber offers for sale, about 2000 acres of land in Fairfax county, not more than from seven to nine miles from Alexandria. The property is well watered, has a sufficiency of wood, and (judging from the condition of small and well cultivated farms that adjoin it,) it is highly susceptible of improvement.—It is at present divided into tenements, of from one to two hundred acres, each provided with a dwelling house, out houses, a garden and orchard; and might, of course, be laid off into four or five very compact farms. The principal object of the subscriber, being the introduction of a good system of husbandry into his neighbourhood, he will sell on very moderate terms, give a long credit on the whole amount of the purchase money, and require no other interest, than what the present rent of the land pays, being about 3 per cent. on its estimated value.

Proposals

For publishing, by subscription, an original work, to be entitled

A JOURNAL

OF THE LOSS OF THE BRIG COMMERCE,

Of Hartford, (Connecticut) Capt. Riley: of the captivity of Capt. Riley, who was for two months a slave amongst the Arabs; and of the slavery and sufferings of the author for nineteen months among the same people; with accounts of the manners, customs and habits and a description of the country of the Arabs. By Archibald Robbins.

THE narratives and journals of Travellers, Adventurers, the Shipwrecked and Prisoners, are often told with exaggerations, and not unfrequently condemned as deceiving, rather than informing the world. The author of the proposed journal is a citizen of Connecticut, and one of the suffering crew of Capt Riley.—He has seen life in a sphere uncommon to his countrymen—he has endured miseries uncommon to human nature. By the blessings of a merciful Providence he has survived to detail his sufferings to the world. If truth will excite astonishment, and even occasion incredulity, he cannot help it: but he is resolved to tell a plain unvarnished tale of extreme suffering—of the manners, customs and habits of the extraordinary people among whom he endured it. He will submit it to the world, hoping that the liberality of the public will, in a small degree, compensate him for his suffering, by reading the tale of it.

TERMS.

I. The work shall constitute a duodecimo volume of about three hundred pages, to be handsomely bound.

II. The price to subscribers will be one dollar, to non-subscribers, $1 34.

III. Those who procure twelve subscribers, and become responsible for the payment, shall have a thirteenth gratis.

Subscription papers to be returned to William S. Marsh, Hartford, by the first day of October next.

☞ Subscriptions received at this Office.

☞ Editors of newspapers who feel interested upon this subject, and who will give these proposals a few insertions, shall be entitled to a copy of the proposed work when published.

Runaway from the subscriber in Cornwallis's Neck, a negro woman named Phillis, formerly the cook and market woman of Captain Richard Stonestreet, of Broad Creek—I have heard she wishes to get to Philadelphia. 100 Dollars Reward.

ABSCONDED from the subscriber, two female negro SLAVES. Phoebe, who I understand has changed her name to Nancy, 30 years of age, about five feet seven or eight inches high, black complexion, straight and well proportioned, brought up as a house servant and semptress—at which last profession she is excelled by none of her color.

Peggy, a bright mulatto, 19 or 20 years of age, about 5 feet 5 or six inches high, rather thick, and has a scar on the top of one of her feet; also brought up as a house servant.

The above reward will be paid for the delivery of the above slaves to me, at my residence in Fairfax county, at the 22d mile stone, Little River Turnpike Road; or sixty dollars for the former and forty or the latter.

HARRISON FITZHUGH.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, living in Charles County, near Port-Tobacco, on the 27th day of February last, a negro man, by the name of NACE, about 51 years of age, very crooked about the knees, and subject to sore shins; he is very stout, & his complexion very dark; when laughing his gums shew very plain and are large and red; his clothing is unknown. It is very probable he is lurking about the city of Washington or Georgetown. Any person that will apprehend said negro and secure him in any jail so that I get him again, shall receive the above reward of Twenty-five Dollars.

For the prevention and cure of BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended

HAHN's ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, particularly in New-York Philadelphia Baltimore Petersburg Richmond Norfolk Edenton Wilmington Charleston and Savannah. The testimony of a number of persons in each of the above places can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has under Providence preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventative; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance; they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Lee's Infallible Ague and Fever Drops

For the cure of agues, remittent and intermittent fevers.

Hamilton's Worm-destroying Lozenges,

Which have cured an immense number of persons of both sexes of every age and in every situation of various dangerous complaints arising from worms and from obstructions or foulness in their stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of as operating with violence; on the contrary a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and constitution. It contains nothing but what is perfectly innocent & is so mild in its operation that it cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old should no worms exist in the body; but will without pain or griping cleanse the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion

Description of Worms, and the symptoms by which they are known.

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds viz.—The Teres or large round worm; the Ascarides or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitina or short flat white worm; and lastly, the Tænia or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious; purging with slimy and fœtid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; slow fever with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms, should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent the vomiting and purging of children—a dreadful disorder which annually destroys thousands of the infant part of our citizens. It is likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for rheumatisms gout palsy sprains and bruises white swellings old strains and relaxations numbness and weakness of the nerves pains of the side head ache swelled face frozen limbs and every similar complaint. It prevents chilblains or chopped hands and the ill effects of getting wet or damp in the feet.

The Genuine Persian Lotion,

So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals the basis of other lotions, and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin freckles pimples inflamatory redness scurfs tetters ringworms sunburns prickly heat &c. The Persian Lotion operates mildly, without impeding the natural insensible perspiration which is essential to health, yet its effects are speedy and permanent, rendering the skin delicately soft and smooth and improving the complexion.

The Damask Lip Salve—Restorative Powder for the teeth and gums.

This excellent preparation comforts and strengthens the gums, preserves the enamel from decay, and cleanses and whitens the teeth, by absorbing all the acrimonious slime and foulness which suffered to accumulate, never fails to injure and finally ruin them.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative,

Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of the various complaints resulting from dissipated pleasures, juvenile indiscretions, residence in climates unfavourable to the constitution, the immoderate use of tea, frequent intoxication or any other destructive intemperance the unskilful or excessive use of mercury, the diseases peculiar to females at certain period of life, bad lyings in &c.
